

SOCIAL JUSTICE AWARD

Oliver Hamill

Holy Spirit College Bellambi

"All over the world a wide range of issues are presently occurring and it comes down to us, those who are lucky enough to live in peace and prosperity, to change it. As a member of a younger generation, I believe we must work together to achieve equality in all aspects of life. Every step we take to achieve social justice all over the world counts and the more quickly we come to understand this, the more readily we may come together and work towards a brighter future."

SOCIAL JUSTICE AWARD Ella Nixon

Mary Mackillop Catholic College Nundah

SOCIAL JUSTICE AWARD
Adriana Ferkula-Cohen
Mary Mackillop Catholic College Wakeley

Working with other Indigenous students and the Culture
leaders, Adriana Led the engagement of the College
communitun in an art work display for Reconciliation
Week. The art display identified the connectedness of all people and the need for reconciliation and recognition of everyone's gifts.

A Daily Cuppa Book Launch

JAG

SOCIAL JUSTICE AWARD

Mikaela Jago

Mount Saint Joseph Milperra

Girls For Ghana

Centacare

Sisterhood Secrets

A stylized, high-contrast pop art illustration of a woman's face, partially visible on the left and right edges of the image. The style uses bold black outlines, a limited color palette of red, yellow, and black, and a halftone dot pattern for shading. The woman has dark hair and is looking slightly to the right.

"Despite all the chaos and uncertainty of 2020, this year has made me appreciate the importance of a simple conversation. Amidst all the injustice and inequalities plaguing our world, we who are more privileged are endowed with a mission- to use our voice to amplify the voices of those who aren't being heard. I have been inspired by the strength and selflessness of the Josephites and the life of Mary Mackillop in her unwavering faith to try my hardest to act in a way that can help in any way those who are marginalised or suffering, and to hopefully inspire others to do the same thing and utilise their own platform within their community, family or friends to help shape the inclusive and just world that we wish for."