

Intellectual Property of the Sisters of Saint Joseph of the Sacred Heart

The Sisters of Saint Joseph (SOSJ) hold a large collection of artistic and published works detailing the life and legacy of their founders, St Mary MacKillop and Fr Julian Tenison Woods, along with published writings, photographic, audio and digital material documenting the Congregation's history.

Today many parishes, schools and organisations share in the spirit of St Mary MacKillop, Julian Tenison Woods and the Sisters of Saint Joseph as they witness to God's love by discerning the needs of our time and responding to them in simple, ordinary ways. Many of these institutions seek to use symbols, images, or other material to show their connection to the Josephite story.

Using Sisters of Saint Joseph Intellectual Property

The Sisters of Saint Joseph appreciate the work of Catholic Education Offices, parishes and agencies in supporting organisations which have a Josephite heritage and are pleased to assist these organisations by authorising the reproduction of some of their intellectual property, including material pertaining to St Mary MacKillop.

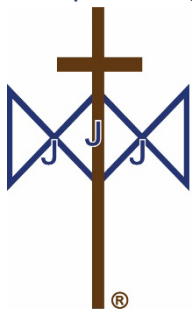

Requests for the use of trademarked or copyright material can be made via the application form available at www.sosj.org.au/responding-together/image-requests/. This service is provided at minimal or no cost to the applicant where the use is non-commercial, for example for use in prayer or liturgical celebrations.

Where the intended use is commercial, the application must be approved by the Trustees of the Sisters of Saint Joseph and an appropriate non-exclusive licence agreement established between the applicant and the Trustees.
